20 DAYS UNTIL SPRING!!! Lol I can’t be the only one looking forward to spring right? Also remember to “Spring Ahead” on Sunday, March 14th for Daylight Savings time and Chag Pesach Sameach to those celebrating Passover at the end of the month!

Well I want to warn you that while dates are still uncertain, it is looking really good over in the new library as you can tell from the pictures we’ve been posting both here and on Facebook. We will likely be moving over during the month of March and could possibly be in by April 1. That’s not a joke and it’s not exactly a promise either but we’re going to try. We will probably experience some more closures while the move is taking place and for that we thank you in advance for your patience. We will give you as much advance notice as we can. I’m sure you are as excited as we are and we simply cannot wait to celebrate with you!

What Can We Do To Help?

We know things may be difficult. Some of you may have lost your jobs, or are working solely from home. Kids are now remotely learning at least half the time. Please take advantage of our databases that could help you find a job or help your kids with Online learning. Here are just a few links to help. You can find all of our databases including links to online books, movies and magazines on our website: www.islandtreespubliclibrary.org under the tab “Research”
